Values

Series: Energy

In my paintings my main issues are values und orientation. Familiar things, which allow us to orientate in our world, receive a special place and are being focussed. The lamp (light bulb) in the series "Energy" symbolizes the use of energy and the multiple plug socket represents the distribution of energy. Different energy-plugs comment on the kind how mankind uses energy – with respect or without.

The Light Bulb and The Distributor | Oil on Canvas | 2019 | 2x 90cm x 70cm
Oh! (magenta – blue – yellow – light green – dark green) | Oil on Canvas | 2019 | 5x 30cm x 30cm

Series: The Joy of Bathing

In my paintings my main issues are values und orientation. Familiar things, which allow us to orientate in our world, receive a special place and are being focussed. In one of my latest series - called "Badefreuden" (The Joy of Bathing) – I put my attention to simple things like a bathing duck which starts to communicate with lines and colours or with other simple objects.

Series: Values

I often use maps in my paintings as they are important for orientation and show the perspective of the editor and his temporal embedding. In my series "Values" I'm looking for hot spots where nowadays immaterial values are created such as know how, ideas or new ways of co-living. The main theme of each hot spot will be then transferred into my painting und communicates with a 200 year old map representing the creation of values in the old material style.

Vienna BioCenter

The Vienna BioCenter is located in the 3rd district of Vienna and is one of the leading research institutes in the field of life and biomedical sciences. In the view of the artist die combinations of research institutes with biotechnology and medical corporates makes this hot spot very special. In addition value is being created with the help of science organisations and academic institutions. Like in the case of ground cover plants the strength and essential characteristics develop through cooperation.

Institute of Science and Technology Austria (IST Austria)

The Institute of Science and Technology Austria is a young international institute in Klosterneuburg close to Vienna. The main focus of IST Austria is basic scientific research and postgraduate education. Till 2026 it is planned that there are more than 90 research groups. The essential characteristic of this institute is that know how is spread all over the world – in the picture represented by the symbol of an atom.
